Managers

ANY AFTERNOON of football practice the casual observer will notice headgears and strips of canvas tacked up and lots of footballs and blankets, and buckets and white lines drawn, and all manner of equipment strewn all over the field. If you think it isn't a big job to manage a football team, ask Sted Gould. He was senior manager last year, and he will tell you that football players have taking ways with several things including coeds and equipment. ¶ Not that it is any crime. Football players put in a lot of time and effort for the few shouts they get. A big blue blanket or a dented headgear draped on the wall is ready and steady evidence that son made the bench in '29. ¶ But Steve says we gotta keep expenses down, so he hires Gould to do the dirty work. Only Sted didn't do it. The junior managers Biersach, Miller, Aiken, Gibson, and Manuel, next senior manager, did it. Sophomore managers include Larsen, Hooker, Collins, Pike, Casebeer, Strohm, Witzel, Allen, and Knopsnyder.

ANOTHER highlight of the minor sport season just completed was the excellent record turned in by the wrestling team. After taking the measure of practice opponents with ease, the beeg, strong fellers journeyed to Berkeley for the Minor Sports Carnival, there to on the Frosh squad this year are Antola, Anderson, Lank, and Vandegrift. Each of these men should find a place on the varsity, and should contribute jointly toward winning the Minor Sports crown next spring. Before they can suc-

Class of 1931

THE CLASS of 1931, upon entering the University, immediately set forth to make itself one of the most enterprising and energetic classes then on the campus. Members chosen to lead the class through its first year of trials and tribulations showed outstanding ability. It is to the officers of the first year that the class owes much of its later achievements. They consisted of Dan Adamson, president; Muriel Ansley, vice-president; Sally Sedgwick, secretary; and Fred Kilgore, treasurer. The social activities of the first year consisted of numerous afternoon dances in the fall, Frosh Glee Dance in the spring, and a May Day picnic. The first Faculty-Freshman Tea, which has since become an annual custom, was first given by this class. The precedence was established by the class of 1931.

CARL SCHLICHE
President

The officers elected to serve during the second year were Fred Kilgore, president; Marian Mabee, vice-president; Alice Graydon, secretary; and Fred Zellar, treasurer. As freshmen, traditionally losing the annual Frosh-Sophomore Brawl, the class when sophomores customarily trounced the incoming freshmen. Social affairs included many informal dances, one of which was held at the Palomar Tennis Club. A Sophomore Hop was the most outstanding social gathering of the spring.

The opening of the fall semester of 1929 found the University moved to Westwood. Officers for this year included Virgil Cazal, president; Sally Sedgwick, vice-president; Betsy Ashburn, secretary; and Jock Thomson, treasurer. The outstanding social event of the year was the Junior Prom held at the Biltmore Hotel.
