Leading a totally inebriated group, such as the Sigma Pis, through a sober year, was a task in itself for President George Poulos. The Fall Initiation, held at the Hilton, Spring Formal at Sportsmans' Lodge, and the Orchid Ball topped the social calendar. Also on the informal side were two pledge parties, football victory soirees, and a "Frontier Town Party." Bob and John Seaman, Carl Jaffe, Lloyd Talle and Jon Mitchell boosted house prestige by their activities on the track squad. Leading the race for the scholarship trophy was George Francis, who for the fourth consecutive semester captured the Subject A spelling contest. Such activities made for a jovial year.

FRESHMAN TRACK

The Brubabe spikers, who competed with the relatively strong junior colleges, did exceptionally well during this season in their dual meets. Coach Craig Dixon had his squad pushing a few varsity records. Outstanding performances included John Seaman in the 880 and mile, Pete Rodriguez in the mile and two mile, Ron Ulrich in the javelin, Ken Thompson in the hurdles, Sid Meyers in the sprints, and Duane Milliman in the shot put and the discus. The strong freshman team made the outlook very good for an even stronger Varsity track team next year.

GOLD KEY

Gold Key, the highest men's honorary at UCLA, is restricted to upper division membership on the basis of service, scholarship, and leadership. An annual basketball game against the SC Blue Key, exchanges with Women's honoraries, and a pigskin fray with the Yeomen rounded out a program of crazy meetings. Main event at most of the meetings was a ten round bout with Bob Seamen and Olga versing Dick Borun in a tooth and claw battle. To keep up appearances, members of ten were seen on campus in their traditional white outfits sparkled by the blue and gold felt emblem of their group.

SIGMA PI

The Sigma Pis hosted their national convention in September to set the stage for another great year. The season's social calendar was aglow with parties, banquets, and balls, perhaps the most outstanding of which was the pledge "Haunted House" party in December. In athletics, the house was represented by The Brothers Seaman and Kenneth L. Riding, who played track; Ben Rogers, who played basketball; Jan Humble and Dave Lilly, who played crew; Tony Albany, who played football; and Vladimir Ivo Popovich, who played horses. Campus commandos were Claudius Keyzers, assistant Spring Sing chairman and Homecoming chairman elect; Chuck McCrary, prexy of Kelps; Phil Lyons, Senior Social Club wheel; and Mike Merz of the Society for Preservation and Extension of Gracious Living Through Alcoholism.

TRACK TEAM

UCLA had its greatest dual meet track team in history this year. In almost every event the Bruins displayed fine balance, and they looked forward to beating the Trojans for the first time. Returning NCAA veterans who formed the team's nucleus were Don Vick, shot-put; Bob Seaman, mile; Russ Ellis, 440; Dick Knaub, broad-jump; Nick Dyer, high-jump; and the incomparable Rafer Johnson. With the arrival on the scene of Dave James, Walt Torrence, Marvin Luster and many more the team was strengthened greatly, despite the NCAA ban. In the California meet, Rafer Johnson returned to action in impressive fashion, winning the javelin-throw and placing second in the discus. Bob Thompson improved his 880 mark by a full second. The Bruins had the material for a promising track season.

One of the infield squadmen for UCLA Track was Don Vick, who excelled in the shot-put.

UCLA's steady Bruin cagers moved into a tie for the league lead by disposing of the Oregon Webfoots twice, as expected, with scores of 81-62 and 73-65 at MacArthur Court in Eugene, Oregon. In the initial game of the series, the Bruin five started out like they meant business by going ahead to stay on two free-throws by Torrence. They increased that lead until they walked off the floor at halftime with a nine-point advantage, 38-29. In the second half, the only trouble came when Oregon tried to put on an unsuccessful "scare." The next night's game followed much the same line as the night before, with UCLA having a twelve-point lead at the half. Once again the Ducks tried to put on a "scare rally" in the final half, but the closest that they could get was within four points of the Woodenmen. After that it was one big surge ahead by the Bruins. Rogers and Torrence were tied for the high scoring honors, with seventeen points apiece.

GOLD KEY

Gold Key is the highest men's honorary on the UCLA campus. Its membership is restricted to upper division men and is decided on the basis of service to the University campus, scholastic achievement, and leadership. An annual basketball rivalry between the UCLA organization and the Southern California Blue Key is the event which all Gold Key members eagerly anticipated. Exchanges with many of the women's honoraries was another bright idea in the program planning. A football game with the lower division honorary, Yeomen, gave Gold Key members a chance to show off their strength. A round of regular informal meetings filled in all the empty spots on the calendar. In order to keep up appearances on the campus, the Gold Key members were quite often seen around in their traditional white sweaters with insignia . . . the blue and gold felt "C" which is synonymous with the meaning of honor and service at UCLA. Busier than ever, the Gold Key agenda was packed with a good variety of social activities and athletic events to fill the entire year.
